Drop-in's are welcome at the monthly rate, but are reserved for more advanced students or those needing my piano accompaniment services. The cost of piano books varies and each student is responsible for the cost of their books. If I purchase books ahead of time, I pass on my teacher discount to the students. Flexibility:

I take pride in providing flexibility for my students and their families and am willing to adjust times and days to the best of my ability as well as make time for make-up lessons in case of unexpected cancellations. I do, however, require at least 24-hour notice of cancellation in order to not be charged for the lesson. Consistency, not only in the student's weekly practice at home, but attending scheduled lessons is the best way to ensure each student improves and becomes successful in learning to play the piano. It is a core instrument and will be beneficial in many other aspects of life.

Goal:

I desire to teach each student the joy of music and the beauty of making notes on a page come to life. Whether you desire to become a concert pianist or desire to learn piano for a hobby, I am here to help make that possible. I take seriously each student's goals and help them achieve each level of success. Music truly is a beautiful sound created by God and it gives me great joy to help others be inspired by the sound of the piano.

Pianist Service:

As a professional pianist and musician, I am available for hire for weddings, funerals, musicals, vocal and instrumental piano accompaniment, worship services, vocalist, and orchestra events. Cost may vary.
